

What a story Noah is! If you never went to church as a child or an adult somewhere along the line you would have heard about the story of Noah and the great flood.

On Sunday we looked at this story and saw how there were some striking similarities with Noah and the ancient world he lived in and us and our modern day world.

We read in Genesis 6:5 that the world was in a pretty awful state. The bible says that the situation had got so bad that it even caused God's heart to be filled with pain. But against this backdrop of rife wickedness we see a man who, by faith, walked with God (Gen6:9) and obeyed God in all that he did.

Let us encourage one another to walk with God this week and live out our lives like Noah, in obedience to our heavenly father! Go against the flow of the world this week by being bold, speaking the truth about Jesus, loving those who the world rejects, and being a blessing.

The bible in 2 Peter 2:5 calls Noah a preacher of righteousness. We are not told exactly what that means but we can surmise that he told people about God and urged them to follow him by his words and actions.
