

Three ordinary men and one amazing, faithful, rescuing God!

Today in the Word writes that "people who are willing to stake their lives on their theology are pretty serious about it. That was the case for the three young Hebrew men in Daniel 3. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego made a courageous, principled stand against King Nebuchadnezzar's order to bow to his golden statue.

At the heart of their commitment was their view of God. These young men, taken as captives from Israel to Babylon, took with them their knowledge of God's commands. From their very first days of captivity in this pagan country, these three and their pal Daniel decided that the most important thing they could do was obey God.

You could say that their decision was based either on "External Pressure" or "Internal Principle" the same is true for us. Do we bow the knee to external pressure or Internal principle?

Take courage from God's word this week and let's decide to live like these three faithful men and make a stand for Jesus no matter what comes our way!
